

PERCUTANEOUS MITRAL ANNULOPLASTY WITH HEMODYNAMIC MONITORING

Abstract of the Disclosure

A minimally invasive method of performing mitral annuloplasty is disclosed. An implantable device is positioned within the coronary sinus and tightened around the mitral annulus. Mitral valve regurgitation is monitored before, during, and/or after the tightening step. An on-going drug therapy may be determined, taking into account post-implantation hemodynamic function.

H:\DOCS\GVH\GVH-5887.DOC:///df1/jt2
032304